

Call for Papers
China International Conference in Macroeconomics (CICM)
June 23 - 25, 2018
Beijing, China
(11/15/2017)

The inaugural annual China International Conference in Macroeconomics (CICM) will be held on June 23-25, 2018 in Beijing, which is jointly sponsored and organized by Tsinghua University PBC School of Finance (PBCSF), Tsinghua University National Institute of Financial Research (NIFR) and China Forum of Macroeconomic Research (CFMR). The conference is the first major activity in a series of conferences to be organized jointly by the China Forum of Macroeconomic Research and collaborating academic institutions in the Greater China area. The conference is composed of regular parallel academic sessions in both English and Chinese, as well as a policy session where policy makers and experts from China and other regions discuss and present their views on current issues related to Chinese and the global macro economy.

CO-ORGANIZERS:

PBC School of Finance, Tsinghua University

The National Institute of Financial Research, Tsinghua University

China Forum of Macroeconomic Research

TOPICS

We welcome high-quality academic papers in all areas of macroeconomics as broadly defined, especially research on Chinese macro economy. The topics include but not limited to, economic growth and development, business cycles, firm dynamics, labor market, money and banking, macro-finance, monetary and fiscal policies, international trade and finance, structural changes, and income distribution and inequality. Papers in both English and Chinese are considered.

KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

Thomas J. Sargent (New York University; 2011 Nobel Laureate in Economics)

Justin Lin (Peking University)

Tao Zha (Emory University and Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta)

BEST PAPER AWARDS

The program committee plans to select two conference papers from junior researchers for the following awards.

CICM Best Junior Scholar Paper Award: US$2000 each

Papers in all topics will be considered for the awards, but we give priority to job market papers and China-related research.
